

Nothing Short of Spectacular: The 43rd Pittsburgh Vintage Grand Prix with Ramsey Potts as Grand Marshal

Recognized as one of the premier vintage racing events in the world, the Pittsburgh Vintage Grand Prix (PVGP) holds a unique distinction—the only vintage road race run on public streets in the United States. This year marked the 43rd running of the event, and we were proud to see our very own Senior Car Specialist, Ramsey Potts, honored as the Grand Marshal. Spanning ten unforgettable days, the PVGP is more than just a race, it's a full celebration of vintage automotive culture. From the scenic cruises to the evening parties, the event brings together a passionate community united by a shared love of collector cars.

At the heart of the PVGP are two thrilling weekends of racing. This year introduced an exciting twist: due to a bridge closure at Schenley Park, a new hillclimb format was added to the mix. Following his run up the new course in his 1988 Porsche 944 "Firehawk," Potts described the experience as "the most thrilling mile," a sentiment many racers likely shared over the two day running of the hillclimb event. With thousands of attendees, countless collector cars on display, and racing action that delivered on every front, the 2025 PVGP was a resounding success—an unforgettable gathering that reminded us all why we appreciate these machines so much.
